Crews Blast Provo Canyon Cliff

Crews from Sanders Construction Co., Lindon, got everything to work this morning at about 11:10 near the mouth of Provo Canyon. Technical problems Thursday and Friday delayed the crews from setting off about 150 "holes" of explosives. After checking things thoroughly this morning, the blast lifted off the top of the cliff, sending tons of rocks rumbling down, blocking the road for about an hour. Larry Buss, UDOT project engineer, says there will be periodic closures while crews clean up debris from the blast.

Queen Elizabeth Begins Five-Day Visit to Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Britain's Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, arrived in Amman today for a five-day visit to Jordan under cold, rainy skies and heavy security precautions.

The queen's special jet touched the British Embassy.

In London, the Daily Telegraph reported today that Hussein, in a Sunday telephone conversation with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, gave his personal assurances that the queen and danian flags lined the driveway of the airport and cheered.

The British royal couple will stay at the heavily guarded palace complex where Hussein and his family live.

Poles Int 'Crucifix

GARWOLIN, Poland (UPI) — Communist authorities defied Poland's powerful Roman Catholic church Monday and upheld a ban on crucifixes at a school that has become the center of a church-state "war of the crosses."

The decision was taken on the eve of a regular meeting of the Catholic Episcopate, the highest church executive body that was due to meet Tuesday to discuss the ban imposed at Mietne vocational school near the town of Garwolin outside Warsaw March 7.

The headmaster at the Mietne school, Rysard Domanski, told UPI Monday that both he and the authorities were determined the crosses would not be restored to classrooms.

"Government spokesman Jerzy Urban has been quite clear on this matter, they will not be put back," Domanski said, referring to Urban's insistence that schools are no places for crosses.

Leader of the Communist Party-controlled Peasant Party and Deputy Prime Minister Bronislaw Malinowski also defended the ban. In a reference to crosses in schools, Malinowski accused those trying to "clericalize public life" of "exemplifying intolerance." The school has been closed

Mideast Peace Anniversary

JERUSALEM (UPI) — It is five years ago today that Israel and Egypt signed their historic peace treaty on the White House lawn, but neither country will have a special observance. The
